

CTBR

Centre for Tuberculosis Research

Left: Transmission electron micrograph showing cross-section of Mycobacterium tuberculosis stained with Ruthenium Red to visualize the outer capsule layer of the complex cell wall. (Stokes et al. 2004. Infection and Immunity 72, 5676-5686).

The Centre for Tuberculosis Research (CTBR) ^[1] at UBC is dedicated to the development of novel therapeutics to curb the effects of the most devastating infectious agent of mortality worldwide, Mycobacterium tuberculosis (Mtb).

<http://ctbr.ubc.ca/> ^[1]